

City of Bellevue | Proclamation

Whereas: Sexual assault is pervasive, every 68 seconds, someone is sexually assaulted in the United States; and

Whereas: Black, Indigenous and other people of color, people living in poverty, LGBTQ+ people, non-binary people, elders, people with disabilities and others who have been historically oppressed are disproportionately affected by sexual violence in significant and complex ways; and

Whereas: Rape is among the most underreported crimes for reasons that include the victim's fear of being disbelieved or further traumatized. Additional barriers, such as language, immigration status, gender bias and systemic racism contribute further to the silencing of victims; and

Whereas: Negative impacts of sexual violence trauma on adults, youth and children include fear, concern for safety, physical and mental health conditions, including symptoms of post-traumatic stress disorder, injury and missed work or school; and

Whereas: King County is home to many organizations that provide culturally and linguistically specific services for survivors of sexual assault. These services are critical to effectively respond to many survivors' specific needs; and

Whereas: Only by working together as a community can we prevent and alleviate the trauma of sexual violence by ensuring supportive resources are available to all, while standing up to attitudes and behaviors that contribute to sexual assault.

Now, therefore, I, Lynne Robinson, Mayor of the City of Bellevue, Washington, and on behalf of its City Council, join advocates and communities throughout King County in taking action to prevent sexual violence by standing with survivors and proclaiming April 2023 as:

Sexual Assault Awareness Month

Together, we commit to a safer future for all children, youths, adults and families in our community.
