

Demographic Survey of the City of Bellevue's Public Art Collection

How will this information be used?

Currently, the City of Bellevue has no substantial demographic information regarding its public art collection. This information will be used to describe the collection at large and help staff understand the history of the collection and the people behind the art. Bellevue is an incredibly diverse city; does the collection reflect its community? How can it better serve to tell the story and future of Bellevue?

All personal identifiers will remain private. City Staff may use individual information to reach out to artists for specific events, programs, or to be highlighted. For example, this year the City is highlighting artworks for Asian American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month and is looking to correctly identify artists in the collection that identify as such.

Thank you for making Bellevue a more vibrant and meaningful place!

If you worked together on an artist team, we will be collecting surveys from all artists involved, so please answer for yourself only.
